

Abstract of the Disclosure:

A modular printing machine system for printing on sheets, including a first printing machine of satellite construction type having a central first impression cylinder and at least 5 four printing devices assigned thereto, a second printing machine having a second impression cylinder, and a coupling device for coupling the printing machines to one another for in-line operation thereof, includes a feeding device for transferring the sheets to the second impression cylinder, and 10 at least one adjusting device assigned for register correction to the feeding device.

15 HLL/tg